

A scatter plot showing a large, dense cluster of blue circular data points. A dashed blue line represents a linear regression fit to the data, showing a positive correlation. The data points are concentrated in the upper-middle region of the plot, with a few outliers extending towards the bottom-left and bottom-right. The regression line starts from the bottom-left and extends towards the top-right, passing through the center of the main cluster.

Measured

Predicted